Chamberlain Out — Churchill in

A Football Play in War

Winston Churchill Friday afternoon stepped out of an audience with King George and found himself the new prime minister of Great Britain. The Norwegian disaster had wrecked the cabinet of his predecessor, Neville Chamberlain—but a short distance across the English Channel the roaring guns of the Germans invading Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, bore out the truth of Chamberlain's diagnosis: That Germany never really intended to fight the Allies in Norway, but aimed to feint them away from the Western Front and then hit hard there.

J.P. (Pinkey) Byers Enters the Race for Circuit Clerk

Has Had Experience as Deputy Seven
Years

A COUNTY NATIVE

Born at Shover Springs,
37, Resident of Hope

In the political column of today's Star will be found the announcement of J. P. (Pinkey) Byers as a candidate for circuit clerk and ex-officio recorder of Hempstead county.

Mr. Byers is a native son of Hempstead being born at Shover Springs, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Byers, and is now 37 years of age. Married, and has one child, a daughter, and resides in Hope.

Although in the service of the county for the past seven years, Mr. Byers has never before held or sought public office of any kind.

In offering himself as a candidate for this office his platform consists of one plank—his qualifications. But included in this plank are the experience, the courtesy, the efficiency and the ability which go into the making of a good public official.

After training in the abstract business under the late John H. Arnold, long before he was old enough to vote, Mr. Byers seven years ago was appointed deputy circuit clerk, the position which he has since held. By both training and experience he feels he is well fitted to hold the office he seeks, and to administer its attendant duties. He knows Hempstead county lands, titles, taxation, court procedure and all phases of county government which are necessary requirements to discharge the duties of this office.

Mr. Byers is asking the citizens for promotion on his ability to do the job and do it well. For proof that he can do this in the future if elected circuit clerk, he points to his record of the past—seven years as chief deputy in the office he now seeks to fill—seven years of rendering satisfactory service to the people of Hempstead county.

Music, Voice of Democracy Today

Bandmaster Thomas
Cannon Is Rotary
Speaker

The objectives of modern musical training in the public schools are the same as the objectives of democratic government, as opposed to the aims of the dictatorships, Bandmaster Thomas Cannon told Hope Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow.

Introduced on a program arranged by M. C. Melvin, Mr. Cannon took as his subject, "Bands vs. Dictators." "Under a dictatorship," he said, "the spirit of the citizens is one of intolerance. Youth is taught strict discipline, blind obedience to orders from above—in short, youth is militarized."

LOWLAND BATTLE

Lingering War at Last
Reaches Open Conflict

LONDON—(AP)—Winston Churchill, belligerent first lord of the admiralty, and long-time target of Adolf Hitler's wrath, Friday night became Britain's Man of Destiny, succeeding Neville Chamberlain as Prime Minister, as the war surged over Western Europe.

The government announced the "Right Honorable Nevil Chamberlain had resigned the office of prime minister and first lord of the treasury Friday evening and the Right Honorable Winston Churchill has accepted His Majesty's invitation to fill the position."

Royal Audience
LONDON—(P)—Winston Churchill was received in audience by King George Friday night shortly after Prime Minister Chamberlain had been received in connection with Britain's cabinet crisis.

The action was interpreted immediately as indicating that Chamberlain had resigned and Churchill was being asked to form a new government.

U. S. "Still Neutral"
WASHINGTON—(P)—President Roosevelt Friday expressed "full sympathy" with Queen Wilhelmina's proclamation that Germany had violated a "solemn promise" by invading Holland, but said there was no change in the United States' neutral status.

Meanwhile, Chamberlain prepared to broadcast a message to the nation at 2 p. m. Friday (in Paris Premier Reynaud Friday night announced the reorganization of his cabinet in the face of the intensified threat of Germany's drive to the west.)

Allies Also Move in PARIS—(P)—The British-French army was authoritatively reported moving rapidly across the Belgian border Friday to meet the German legions which entered from the east.

A Paris military spokesman said the "most gigantic battle of all time" may be near at hand.

Broad French military activity came after German bombers had struck deep into France. The French news agency reported French cities which had been bombed included: Nancy, Lille, Lyon, Colmar, Pontleu, Laval.

The Chicago Field Museum exhibits a fossil elephant tooth weighing seven pounds.

The word "pomade" is derived from the French word "pomme," or "apple," because such hair dressings originally were made from apples.

A Thought

Capital Lost, Dutch Cut Dykes; Germans Load Men in Boats

ROTTERDAM—(AP)—Germany's plane and parachute troops, attempting to fight their way through Rotterdam, were driven back into a dangerous position late Friday by attacks of reinforced Dutch troops and the pounding of Dutch artillery.

Strong detachments of Netherlands marines made repeated rushes into enemy positions on the River Nieuwe Maas, and fighting was fierce.

Dutch incendiary shells set fire to a large hotel from which the Germans were operating on the left bank of the stream, which divides Rotterdam.

German leaflets dropped in the Hague by plane told residents that strong German forces surrounded the city and that "resistance is insanity."

Germans Capture Cities
BERLIN—(AP)—A Berlin radio announced Friday night that German troops had taken Maastricht, Holland, and Malmédy, Belgium.

Earlier, the high command reported German troops had broken through resistance on the Belgian-Netherlands-Luxembourg front.

Swiss Mobilize
BERNE—(AP)—The Swiss government Friday ordered a general mobilization beginning Saturday at dawn, and announced that a precautionary "state of war" begins at midnight Friday night.

Lowlands Invaded
LONDON—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, proclaiming the beginning of a fight which "decides the fate of the German nation for the next 1,000 years," hurled his forces into the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg Friday.

The Netherlands and Belgium mustered their full strength against the invaders and called for help from the Allies, who said it was being sent "with the greatest speed"; the tiny Luxembourg government was reported to have fled.

In the Netherlands, where flood waters were sent racing into strategic regions, the Germans used flat-bottomed boats to span inundated areas, and warplanes bombed airports and other objectives, and landed troops by parachute.

A Berlin radio announcement occupation of the Hague, seat of the Netherlands government, and parts of Rotterdam. Queen Wilhelmina broadcast a "flaming protest against this unexplained violation of good faith."

Belgium ordered a general mobilization and King Leopold took active command of the army.

German warplanes raided Brussels, killing two children and wounding 50 persons.

Dutch Fight Hard
AMSTERDAM—(AP)—The Netherlands officially announced Friday her defense forces had shot down at least 70 German planes, had blown up a German armored train at Venlo, and were offering strong resistance along the rivers just inside the eastern part of the country from Germany.

In Rotterdam, German troops were reported to have occupied the Waalhaven airport of Rotterdam after destroying the flying field and hangars in a heavy bombardment.

Former State Employee
Once Resident of

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Frank B. Witte, Magnolia, former employee of the State Revenue Department, Friday filed his corrupt practices pledge as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and became the first to qualify.

Former Local Man
Frank B. Witte for several years was stationed in Hope with the State Highway Department and is known by many local citizens.

The United States contributes only 1 per cent of the world's output of shipbuilding.

Presidential Hope- fuls: Please Note

MILWAUKEE—(P)—Suspicion that handsome Mayor Carl F. Zeidler brought out the women's vote in the April election was borne out by a breakdown of election statistics by the city election commission.

Figures showed that while the men's vote was 244 greater than in the 1936 election, the number of women's votes jumped 3,392. The net result was an all-time high of 215,172 votes.

The Good in a Bad Business

The Mexican oil expropriation affair, returning to deadlock after two years of wrangling, may seem discouraging. But there are encouraging aspects in it.

This thing is going to be settled, and settled in a way that will give substantial justice to both parties. It has taken time. It will take more time. But when enough time is taken, the result will be a settlement of the oil question.

First, the United States has resolutely refused to listen to hotheads who have maintained that the way to settle a controversy between a couple of American oil companies and the Mexican people is to march in with the Marines. Germany seized Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, on far less provocation. But the United States is grimly determined to find a better way.

Second, Mexico has at all times shown willingness to negotiate, and to pay proper indemnification, as she can, and when it has been properly determined. True, she refuses arbitration, but that is a technique. The responsibility she accepts. Russia did not even do this, as we recall it, when the Czarist government was overthrown, and many other revolutions have completely repudiated without any recourse, the obligations of former governments.

So here we have a controversy between two governments, neither of which adopts the viewpoint of past centuries, both of which cling to the forward-looking viewpoint that there is a better way than force.

The controversy has now reached this point: The oil properties have been seized. No Mexican administration can get back on that—it has become a right or wrong, a point of national honor. The United States concedes the seizure, maintains the companies should be paid. Mexico agrees.

Nobody has ever determined how much should be paid, whether all the potential value of oil beneath the seized lands, or simply the value of the physical investment. Mexico has no money to pay immediately in any event.

One of the two principal expropriated companies is about ready to accept payment in oil. After all, what would it have gotten if there had been no expropriation? Oil.

It is all a question of how much, and when, and how. Mexico needs more capital, which it surely can not expect to get until this matter is adjusted. The United States needs all-American good-will; the Mexican case, rightly or wrongly, is being used to block it. When both sides to a controversy stand to

There's a Lesson in Grandpa's Diet, He Ate It in the 'Raw'

If Grandpa lived to be 99 and "eat" everything he wanted, it looks as if there must have been something to his diet.

There was. Grandpa got his food in the natural state. He ate it before anyone took anything out of it. Science has gone a long way today to refine foods, but in the process some of the essential elements have been destroyed.

Grandpa got 'em all. So there is something to be said for the old way—and the new. If science has taken something out of some foods it has also told us where to look for it in other foods. Never was there greater gain more by settlement than by continued disturbance, reasonable people on both sides will continue to hope for amicable settlement.

opportunity than today to learn how to eat right—how to beat the heat, this time of the year.

Nor are all processed foods reduced in food value. The canning industry has so profited by science that scarcely any food value is lost today. In fact, the food in the can is better than something poorly cooked at home. By this is meant over-cooked food, or cooked in soda, or food permitted to stand in water a long time, either before or after cooking.

Cereals seem to have suffered the most in refinement. Whole grains spoil easily, thus they cannot be stored in large quantities. The day is not far, it is hoped, when whole grain cereal products likely will be as abundantly and as cheaply supplied as the highly milled products. Some progress already has been made along this line.

Whole grain cereals contribute generously to the Vitamin B1 or thiamin quota of the daily diet. The greatest deficiency of the modern diet is in Vitamin B1. Grandpa seems to have had all he wanted. Other foods, such as meat, especially lean pork, contain appreciable amounts but are much more costly than cereals.

Refined sugar has made many a deficient diet. Generally, sweets have high satiety value and thus kill the desire for the protective foods which the body really needs. The protective foods supply energy like sugar, but in addition they supply the more vital elements such as proteins, minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

Final Meetings of Brookwood P. T. A.

Brookwood P. T. A. met in its final meeting of the year at the school on Wednesday afternoon. In observance of must week, Mrs. E. C. Hyatt's room gave several songs in keeping with the different periods of our country's history. The report of the state convention which was held in Fayetteville was given by Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Vice President of the unit, and a report of the years work by Mrs. George Newborn. Mrs. Hyatt gave the report of the Council and read the president's message. In the count of mothers, Miss Allen's room received the dollar. A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting through the hospitality of the teachers.

Miss Bridewell Hostess to Thursday's Bridge Club

Miss Elizabeth Bridewell was hostess to the members of her club, the Thursday Bridge Club last evening. For the occasion, colorful spring flowers adorned the rooms. Two tables were arranged for the games. High score was made by Miss Minnie Owen. At the conclusion of the games, the hostess served delightful ice cream and cake.

SERIAL STORY

BET ON LOVE

BY CHARLES B. PARMER

COPYRIGHT 1934
NRA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: The Derby trial began. Pepper Boy, a yearling, against two good horses, won the race with Paul Sherry. Grant gave his monitor a great ride. Madmen challenge in the street. Castanets came up, and the three horses came under the wire, neck and neck.

CHAPTER XIV

"Did I win?" Sherry turned, an anxious face to Wharton.

He was frowning. "I think—look, it's a photo finish—the light is flashing." He indicated the board. "We'll know in a minute."

He became calm, judicial. "You had the best horse, Sherry, but he carried too much lead in the pad. Madden's a great rider, but he's too light. You ought to ride a heavier boy in the Derby—one nearer the weight for that race: 126 pounds."

His words were lost in the wild shouts that rose from thousands who had bet on the favorite.

Sherry sat up stiffly; tried to keep her lips from trembling. The numbers were going up:

The winner: No. 1, Monitor. Second: No. 3, Castanets. Third: No. 10, Pepper Boy.

"It took a picture to separate you from the winner," Wharton tried to console her. "Wasn't more than a nose win."

"Nose ahead good as a mile ahead," Sherry said.

Another shout from the crowd, this time a roar of admiration. A new track record had been set!

Wharton whistled, seized her arm. "Know what that means?" he asked. "The old record was beaten a full second. And since a horse travels 50 feet in a second, and since your colt was only about two inches behind the winner—why, your colt cracked the record, too! You've got a fine property, Sherry."

"See you later, Paul," she said, managing a bright smile, "and thanks for the box seat."

He caught her arm, and drew her close as they stood there by the box railing. "You're a game one, Sherry," he said, his gray eyes looking deep into her blue ones, "and you know how I feel about you."

"Stop it, stop it!" she said, smiling and then looking away. "From now on, till the Derby's run, behold the hardboiled racing woman. If anything so sentimental as a rose petal floats across my pathway before that time, I shall crush it."

it. Tell me after the Derby, Paul!" She laughed and before Wharton could stop her she was out of his box and down the steps. He saw her meet Shep Grant after the latter weighed out. Saw the rider take her arm—walk with her toward the jockey room. Paul swore softly.

SHERRY had gone straight to Grant, as though there had been no coldness between them a few minutes earlier. Her first words were, "A great ride, Shep—a beauty. Congratulations!"

He was embarrassed. "Er—er—thanks, Sherry."

She smiled and looked at him. "Sherry!" Taking her arm, he started in the direction of the jockey room. "Don't mind telling you, Pepper Boy is a good horse."

"You mean it, Shep?"

"I do. He would have beaten both Monitor and Castanets, except he broke from the far outside, had to run further than any horse in the race. If he'd drawn number one, or three, or four—"

"Then he's really good, Shep?"

"You bet he is. He was the best colt in the race," he assured her. "Madden carried a lot of dead weight—to make up 120 pounds."

"If you'd had a 120-pound boy riding," Grant interrupted, "you'd have won going away—even if you did start from the outside. Live weight is much easier for a horse to carry."

"You mean you could have won with him, Shep?" she asked.

He shrugged, was embarrassed again. "Post-mortems don't get us anywhere, you know."

AS Sherry reached her own balcony, she found Sam leading the heavily-blanketed Pepper Boy around a cooling-out ring, while Elijah, the exercise boy, stood by.

"Did he come out of the race unhurt, Sam?"

"One minute, please, Miss Sherry!" he answered, and called to the boy. "You Lijah! Take this here halter, lead him steady-like—and don't stop till I tells you."

He surrendered the halter to Elijah, then went straight up to his mistress. "Miss Sherry, he come out of that race sound as a new dollar—an' he didn't draw a hard breath. He's ready to go a mile an' a quarter, Derby distance, Miss Sherry. But—but—" he hesitated, as if afraid to speak what was on his mind.

"Go on, Sam. What did you start to say?"

"Miss Sherry, ain't none of my business—but you ain't a'goin' to sell him, is you?"

"Sell him? Certainly not! What gave you such a crazy notion?"

"Well, ma'am, I said to more'n got back here with him, right after the race when a dressed-up white man come up to me, right here."

"Yes, go on."

"He wuz dark-complected, and wuz dressed fit to kill."

"What did he want, Sam?"

"I 'spec' he wuz scoutin' for some rich man who wants his colors in the Derby. Them sorts is always tryin' to buy a good colt at the last minute. But, Miss Sherry—"

"Sam shuffled uncomfortably, 'you ain't going to sell the little fellow for nothin', is you?'"

"Not for anything, Sam," she reassured him.

"Thank you, thank you, Miss Sherry!" he glowed with relief. "I jes' wants to handle a Derby winner befo' I dies."

THE thought struck her: she had to have money instantly, or there would be no next time. Tomorrow was Saturday; Sam and Elijah had to be paid. The feed bill was due—and a blacksmith's bill. She had to get a new blanket for Pepper Boy—a good horse blanket in her colors and worth of being thrown over a Derby candidate, would cost at least $30. She owed for the furnished house she'd taken—got it with no down payment because she had a Derby colt, and the place was going vacant. And, yes, she had to have $500 in order to start Pepper Boy in the Derby.

She had less than a handful of dollars to her name.

Then she remembered Cousin Ted, and the generous offer of the morning. Too bad, but she'd have to tap Ted for the entire $700. Well, the school teacher had offered it. She'd—

Sherry stopped abruptly, in front of the partly-closed door of her back room. Someone was in there—two persons—and they were arguing in low but heated tones.

A girl's voice. . . you said Madden would give Pepper Boy a masterpiece of a ride. Those were your words. You swore he'd win!"

"But, my dear," well-known English accents answered, "he'd give the colt a great ride! Beautiful! He was within two inches of winning."

"Beautiful, was it? Those two inches cost me $700."

Sherry gasped with shock. "Good Granny Moses!" she exclaimed to herself, "Uncle Willie touted Cousin Ted."

Fourth Column? Idea Originated in Madrid

By NEA Service
During the Spanish Civil War, when the fighting was at its fiercest, the French forces were divided into four columns, advancing against the Loyalist forces, more or less independent of the other, but all converging on the Loyalist forces. The Loyalist was quoted at that time as saying the ultimate victory would be won by any of these four columns, but by his fifth column, by which he meant his supporters inside Madrid and behind the Loyalist lines, operating on his favor from within, by sabotage, by desertion, by assassination, by any means possible.

The Loyalist took up the term, and began designating all such "inside activities" as the Fifth Column. Radicals throughout the world then took it up from the Spanish Loyalists, and today it is widely accepted as any "agitation" "boring from within" a regime to undermine and destroy it in favor of some outside force.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 32
Proposed by the General Assembly and filed in the office of the Secretary of State on 15th day of March 1939.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, A MAJORITY OF BOTH HOUSES AGREEING THERETO:

That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and the same being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Senators and Representatives, if a majority of the electors voting thereon adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, to wit:

Section 1. Amendment No. 29 to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas is hereby repealed.

Section 2. Vacancies in the office of the United States Senator, and in all elective state, district, circuit, county and township offices except the office of the United States Marshal, of the General Assembly and Representative in the Congress of the United States, shall be filled by appointment by the Governor.

Section 3. The Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Acting Governor shall be ineligible for appointment to fill any vacancy occurring or any office position created by the resignation, death, removal or expiration of term of office of any officer, and shall not be eligible for re-election to the same office.

Section 4. No person holding office contrary to this amendment shall be paid any compensation for his services. Any warrant, voucher or evidence of indebtedness issued in payment for such services shall be void.

Section 5. The appointee shall serve until the expiration of term in which the office in which the vacancy occurs, if such office would in regular course be filled at the next general election, if no vacancy had occurred. If such office would not in regular course be filled at such next general election, the vacancy shall be filled as follows: At the next general election, if the vacancy occurs four months or more prior thereto, and at the second general election after the vacancy occurs if the vacancy occurs less than four months before the next general election after it occurs. The person so elected shall take office on the 1st day of January following his election.

CHURCHILL

(New British Prime Minister)

Europe's small neutrals know the big man in Britain. This cartoon shows what De Groene, a comic paper of Amsterdam, thinks of the inner cabinet. Back of Churchill is Sir John Simon, to the left Sir Samuel Hoare, then Chamberlain, and Lord Halifax.

By MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON—If there is a living Admiral Crichton, he is Winston Churchill.

He started as a soldier, swatched to war correspondent, then launched upon his long political career.

He has filled nearly every important cabinet post except that of prime minister.

He is a top biographer and historian of his time.

He is one of Parliament's prime orators, even if—as they gossip—he commits all his set speeches to heart and practices them before his mirror.

He is also one of the best debaters in the House of Commons and the swift thrust and parry of hot debate, the instant quip, and the devastating retort cannot be arranged beforehand.

It is the same in private life. This writer was recently at a private luncheon party with him during which the guests—off the record—plied him with questions. He never paused for an answer. His sentences were full and rounded. His replies were garnished with the true Churchillian wit and humor. It would be base flattery to say that he does not look near his age, but somehow he radiates the spirit of youth and springtime energy. Despite his 65 years, his thinning red hair, despite the lines in his face, which is grave in repose, but lights up with Puckish gleam when he appreciates one of his own ready retorts.

And, of course, he is never complete without the inevitable big, black, Churchill cigar.

That he is still a member in good standing of the Tory party and that he is in the Chamberlain cabinet at all is evidence of the man's power, ability and status. He opposed for a long period his party's program for India and fought the bill for Indian eventual self-government tooth and nail, day after day. A lesser man might have come into the black books of Captain Margesson, the Tory Chief Whip. But Churchill was too big a man and too dangerous an opponent to be treated as are the rebel backbenchers. Margesson could neither scold nor blacklist him.

More than any man in the government, he literally lives with his job. In the Admiralty building there is a whole big apartment which is reserved as the dwelling place of the First Lord. Churchill gets the latest reports before he is out of bed in the morning.

He is one of the first to be at his desk. There he sticks until luncheon time, which he usually takes with his handsome wife. Then back to the job until dinner and after dinner once more on the job until nearly 1 in the morning. Not only that, but he has given orders that if any thing important in connection with the navy comes in at any hour of the night, he is to be awakened and shown the dispatches.

Blossom Time Is Cabriolet Time

It's hard to realize, in the midst of such weather as much of the country has been experiencing, that scenes like the above are just around the corner, chronologically speaking. Experience and the weather man, however, both assert that they are. As a matter of fact, the blooms in the photo are almond blossoms, the locale California, and the car Chevrolet's new cabriolet with vacuum-operated top, controlled from the dash.

Texans Back Both Garner and F.D.R.

Agree That Democrats Should Back Administration

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — "Face-saving is supposed to be an Oriental custom. Story books say many an Oriental has run himself through with a sword because he was defeated for the Oriental equivalent for alderman. It seems he had 'lost face' and could not prove he didn't want the job anyway."

But what we often overlook the fact that good old Anglo-Saxon and Latin stocks from Europe and America have been known to save a few faces now and then, even if they don't do it on purpose.

Take the case of Vice President Cactus Jack Garner, who allowed it to be announced just before the big primaries a few weeks ago that he was out for the presidency whether Boss Roosevelt ran or not.

Garner's announcement was taken by a lot of people to mean that this wise old owl of politics had reason to believe he was in the big money.

For Cactus Jack Garner has seldom made a wrong move. Why, I know an executive for a big group of business men who thought Garner had the lowdown on the political situation and was practically in—before the primaries.

Wondering just what was what about this presidential situation, I visited the Southwest last winter. I ran into a traveling man friend who is a keen student of Texas politics.

So I asked: "What about Texas?"

He said, "Do you mean that Garner-for-President boom? If you do, watch your step. Don't let 'em fool you up there in Washington."

In the first place, Texas Democrats are for their hometown, even if it's only a hog waller. They just naturally love it. Then they're for the state of Texas. They worship it. Next, they're for the Democratic party. After that, they're for Roosevelt, and after that—well, after that they're for Garner."

"I was a little surprised by this stump speech for the President. But now comes the news that my friend might have been aiming in the right direction."

Leastways, that's what people who know make of the love feast the Texas Democrats are holding these days, now that Garner has run behind the procession in the primaries.

At the height of love-making it seems the love-makers sent some telegrams to Samuel Rayburn, Democratic house majority leader from Texas. Funny, the way Mr. Rayburn can get people to send telegrams to him.

Anyway, the Garner-for-President man in Texas, a Mr. Myron G. Blacklock, and the Roosevelt third-term boomer, a Mr. Alvin J. Wirtz, also of Texas, telegraphed Rayburn that they were for Roosevelt AND Garner, lock, stock, and barrel.

Now, it's pretty hard to be for two men for one job, lock, stock and barrel. So the Messrs. Wirtz and Blacklock "clarified" themselves a little further.

They agreed that (1) Texas Democrats should endorse hie Roosevelt administration, (2) that they should send a delegation to the national convention pledged to native son, John Nance Garner, and (3) they should NOT serve as a stop-Roosevelt group.

Well, sir, I couldn't figure it out. So I went to fellows who know Texas politics. They told me it meant Mr. Garner had won a technical victory, thanks to Samuel Rayburn.

It also means, they tell me, that Texas Democrats won't be all split up at the convention with conservatives in one camp and liberals in another, in case Mr. Roosevelt should want a third term. Maybe that means they are going to go for Mr. Roosevelt if he runs for a third term.

Certainly Rayburn has fixed it so to believe he was in the big money.
